Dear Ms. Kezele Fritchman:

This letter is in reference to the Ethics conference I recently attended (10-8-08 in Des Moines, IA). I wanted to thank you for the great experience during this conference. Ethics trainings and updates are vital in the profession of counseling. However, unfortunately, the nature of these presentations can be "dry" and boring to attend. This was certainly not the case with your presentation. I was very pleased with the practical nature of the presentation, but also the interactive and humorous style you interjected. Real-world examples were understandable and made sense for many different types of counseling practices. Your willingness to welcome questions, in the group or in private was well appreciated. Would additional opportunities to attend conferences with you as the presenter, I would jump at the chance.

Thanks again for such a great conference. The educational materials were excellent, but took on even more practical meaning given your presentation style.

Sincerely-

Cher Stephenson, LMHC, CRC
